

AWARD FOR THE BEST CONSULTING PROJECT OF 2007 GOES TO SIGEM Business Consulting

The Association for management consulting has been awarded the prize for the best Slovenian consulting project of the year. This is the fourth competition of its sort, the purpose of which is to discover excellent projects in the field of management consulting as well as to positively motivate and promote quality, innovation, success, and effectiveness of consulting projects. On the thirteenth of November 2007, the Association for management consulting declared the winner.

The project chosen as the best consulting project "Development of key competences of employees working in sales at OMV petrol stations" by SIGEM Business Consulting.

This time, SIGEM Business consulting contended for the prestigious "FENIKS" award for the first time with an excellent project prepared in cooperation with OMV Slovenia along with OMV Austria. The quality, success, and effectiveness of the project have been confirmed in its being chosen the best project in the area of management consulting and the receipt of the FENIKS award.

The advisors of SIGEM Business Consulting, as one of the most distinguished companies in the field of consulting management and information support consulting, would like to express their gratitude to the management and employees of OMV Slovenia and OMV Austria, as well as all our partners who contributed to the realisation of set goals and the receipt of this prestigious award.

CONCRETELY!
Without "strategic" embellishment.
